

Dear partners and friends,

we sincerely hope you, your families and colleagues are doing fine. For all of us, the last months have been challenging and we had to adapt quickly to the new environment. We hope you've found a way to manage.

Since March 2020, CRISP is mostly working in Homeoffice. It took us a while to get used to the new situation, as we had to re-schedule our activities. Thanks to the commitment of our partners and due to the mutual trust we are confident to find ways to implement our activities during the the second half of the year and reach the impact we are thriving for.

Furthermore, we used the time in the last weeks to develop new online formats, such as for example a Training-Course on Conflict Transformation. Furthermore, we have been wrapping up the results of our ongoing projects, which you can find below.

Enjoy this newsletter and feel free to get in touch with us, whenever you think there's a chance for closer cooperation.

Best regards,

The CRISP-Team
